

12-WEEK HURRICANE PREPAREDNESS CHECKLIST

 joyfully prepared

about me

I'm a regular mom...

...with a husband, a bunch of kids, and some dogs and I'm the founder of Joyfully Prepared, a business dedicated to teaching busy moms skills like gardening, food preservation, natural remedies, and more so they can take care of themselves through developing talents, support their families with confidence, and save money.

I've rolled down the mountain of accomplishment so many times that I have skinned knees, grass in my teeth, and sticks in my hair. All of these mistakes have actually allowed me to become more confident in my knowledge and skills.

I'm eager to learn and strive to create a space where people want to learn. I'm not perfect. In fact, someone once described me as the "queen of preparedness, but normal without scaring people."

Whether it's canning, gardening, emergency preparedness, or anything else—I teach others to feel confident while learning it.

Family Needs Profile

- How many people are in your household? _____
- Any food allergies or special dietary needs _____
- Are there babies, young children, or elderly family members? _____
- Does anyone take medications or need refrigeration? _____
- Do you have pets? What do they need? _____
- Would someone in your home need power for oxygen or medical devices?
→ Do you have a backup power plan (generator, battery, etc.)? _____

Waste Management (No Power/Water)

- Toilet not flushing? Use a 5-gallon bucket or line your toilet with a heavy-duty trash bag.
- Sprinkle kitty litter, sawdust, or baking soda after each use to reduce smell.
- Tie off full bags and store in a lidded bin until pickup resumes.
- No bucket? Dig a 6" hole at least 100 ft from water. Bury waste and toilet paper.
- Keep on hand: Trash bags, gloves, hand sanitizer, and wipes.

Fridge & Freezer Tips (Power Outage)

- Freeze water bottles now—they keep food cold longer.
- Don't open the doors unless you have to.
- Eat in this order: fridge first, then freezer, then shelf-stable food.
- Group frozen items together so they stay cold longer.
- Use a thermometer: fridge < 40°F, freezer < 0°F.
- Have a cooler & ice packs ready just in case.
