CHUCK VOLLMER

Opportunity, faith and a life of purpose

Building lasting relationships to create jobs, strengthen communities, and share Christian hope.

BUSINESSES THAT CREATE OPPORTUNITY

Jobenomics helps underserved communities develop microbusinesses and startups that create jobs and pathways to self-sufficiency. The work includes veterans, women, minorities, young people, and others seeking opportunity.

Introduce us to community leaders, entrepreneurs, employers, and local implementation partners.

SEED CAPITAL FOR COMMUNITY IMPACT

Jobenomics Foundation is the nonprofit arm supporting this work. We are raising seed capital for 12 turnkey projects in areas including the digital economy, affordable housing, regenerative agriculture, and experiential tourism.

Introduce us to philanthropists, foundations, corporate partners, and capital providers interested in a project conversation.

A PERSONAL MISSION TO SHARE HOPE

Divine Analogies is my seven-volume Christian reflection series, sharing my 50-year journey with Christ from a rough beginning toward purpose and service. Everyday analogies invite people outside traditional church settings to explore faith and offer hope to those who feel left out.

Planned extensions include audio, video, short daily meditations, and a membership for continuing conversations.

Partner with us through podcasts, influence, ministry, publishing, media production, and distribution to help the message spread.

Who in your network would connect with this work?

I welcome an introduction or a conversation about partnering. Ask me for a project overview or sample reflection and let us arrange a brief follow-up.

Jobenomics.com | Jobenomics.org | DivineAnalogies.org