

Motivational Interviewing in Nutrition & Fitness: Navigating Diet Culture Through a Weight-Inclusive Lens

1-hour synchronous distance learning webinar!

Many professionals in health and wellness fields may not recognize the ways in which language and practice can reinforce diet culture. Supporting the pursuit of weight loss can contribute to disordered eating patterns, yo-yo dieting/weight cycling, and weight stigma. Without conscious reflection, even MI practitioners may inadvertently reinforce these messages, causing further harm.

Weight-neutral or weight-inclusive approaches offer another way forward by taking the focus off of weight outcomes, and instead focusing on sustainable changes that honor health and well-being. This 1-hour virtual session will include tangible strategies for applying weight inclusive practices into motivational interviewing sessions. Participants will explore how MI can help practitioners hold space for their client's desire for weight loss while also discussing the benefits of moving away from a dieting mindset.

Course Objectives

1. Describe 3 key differences between weight centric and weight neutral care.
2. Identify at 2 ways MI can support weight-inclusive, autonomy-supportive care

Course Outline

- Weight centric care
- Weight stigma
- Weight inclusive care
- Comparison of weight centric and weight inclusive approaches
- Addressing client weight concerns without promoting diet culture
- Becoming more aware of healthist / diet culture language when using MI
